GOSPEL MEETINGS DRAW BIG CROWDS

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR ENTHUSIASM MAINTAINED.

Weather Continues Perfect—Thousands Fill the Great Pavilllons to Share the Inspiration of the Movement—Details of the Sessions Held During the Days.

San Francisco, Cal., July 10.—Glorious weather prevailed again Friday, and early in the morning the Christian Endeavorers crowded the various churches where prayer meetings were to be held. The topic of all these was "The Christian Endeavor Pledge." The daily hour for Bible study was conducted at the Central Methodist Episcopal church by Prof. Herbert L. Willet of Chicago, the topic being "Micah—a Message of Warning and Hope." At the First United Presbyterian church the first daily "chalk talk" on the subject of "Truth at a Glance," was conducted by the Rev. Robert T. Pierce of Philadelphia.

The regular sessions of the convention were resumed simultaneously at the big pavilions at 9:30 o'clock. At Woodward's pavilion President Clark presided and R. Powell Evans of San Francisco was musical director.

After singing and devotional exercises, conducted by the Rev. James MacLean of Great Village, Nova Scotia, an address on the Senior Society of Christian Endeavor was delivered by Barton W. Perry of San Leandre, Cal. The next address was on "Christian Endeavorers and the Sunday Evening Service," by the Rev. Jacob W. Knapp of Richmond, Ind. He pointed out various methods which the society may add to the evening meetings of the church. This was followed by the open parliament, under the charge of W. B. Philput of Philadelphia. In the open parliamentary many members participated, and there was an interesting and instructive discussion.

The convention at the Mechanics' pavilion was opened by H. McCoy, secretary of the Young Men's Christian association of this city. Devotional exercises were conducted by the Rev. W. K. Spencer of Adrian, Mich. The first address was delivered by the Rev. G. W. Coleman of Boston on the "Intermediate Society of Christian Endeavor."

"Christian Endeavor Extension in Country Districts" was the subject of an eloquent address by the Rev. J. W. Cochran, of Madison, Wis., after which a song in English was sung by Fong Song, a member of the society, and the Rev. E. S. Powell, of Louisville, Ky., then spoke on the subject of "The Christian Endeavor Pledge." Dr. Powell was followed by the Rev. W. H. G. Temple, of Seattle, Wash., who discussed committee work, closing with an eloquent peroration on the power of Christ for the redemption of the world. Singing by the Chinese quartette followed, the Oriental vocalists being accorded a warm reception. The Rev. Robert Johnson, of London, Ont., spoke on the "Monthly Consecration Meeting," the keynote in his remarks being, "It is heart power and not mind power that moves the world."

A very interesting meeting of Christian Endeavor mothers was held during the morning in the United Presbyterian Church, presided over by Mrs. Frances E. Clark, of Boston. The report of the Junior Society of Christian Endeavor was read by Miss Myrtle Simpson, of San Francisco. It showed that the first society was organized May 23, 1884, at Taber, Ia., by the Rev. J. W. Cowan. At the Minneapolis convention, in 1891, only 855 societies were represented, but in New York, in 1892, over 2,500 were represented. At the Montreal convention, only one year later, the number was almost doubled, 4,136 being represented. But the most telling effect of the organization is the fact that no less than 25,264 Junior Endeavorers have become members of the church.

The report of the Intermediate Society of Christian Endeavor was read by Mrs. James L. Hill, of Salem, Mass. There are now 366 of the societies of middle-aged boys, and California leads all the states with 51 societies. The first of these organizations was formed by the Rev. A. B. Conrad, of Worcester, Mass.

The report of the Mothers' Society, read by Miss Frances Lebaron, of Chicago, showed it to be in a most flourishing condition.

The evangelistic meetings at noon were conducted by the Rev. Robert F. Pierce, of Philadelphia, and the Rev. William Patterson, of Toronto, Ont., at the Young Men's Christian Association; Evangelist David, of South India, and the Rev. J. W. Chapman, of Philadelphia, at the Chamber of Commerce, and the Rev. George F. Pentecost, of New York, at the Emporium. All were largely attended. The afternoon was devoted to conference of committee officers and pastors.

The auddience at Mechanic's pavilion at night was the largest ever assembled within its walls. President Francis E. Clark presided. Five-minute speeches were made by delegates from various countries.

The address of the evening was delivered by the Rev. Ira Landrith, of Nashville, Tenn., who discussed the promotion of interdenominational fellowship through the Christian Endeavor Society.

THIRTEEN KILLED BY HAIL.

Storm, Destructive to Life and Property, Strikes Wurtemburg.

Berlin, July 10.—A Stuttgart dispatch received here brings the news of a destructive hailstorm which raged causing the death of thirteen persons and damage to crops amounting to more than $4,000,000.

Such a meteorological phenomenon in the hottest month of the year has never before been experienced in this part of the fatherland. Before the storm the weather was extremely sultry. Gradually the clouds began to darken and within a few minutes after there was a sudden darkness, followed by rushing torrents of rain which almost submerged the villages. The rain was followed by a terrific hailstorm, some of the hail stones being of almost incredible size. Thousands of head of cattle were killed.

In addition to the thirteen persons killed outright many were fatally injured.

CONFERENCE NOW ON.

Senate and House Committees Hold An All-Day Session.

Washington, July 10.—The Republican conferees on the tariff bill were in session all day Friday and it is said they accomplished a great deal in the way of arguing upon minor amendments. They talked over the general question before them, but will not take up any of the amendments over which there is serious disagreement until next week.

Senator Jones of Nevada is acting with the Republicans and uniting with them. This is understood to indicate that the senate conferees will put Mr. Jones forward to represent that the bill cannot be adopted by the senate as it comes from the conference unless the senate amendments are agreed to, especially those relating to the sugar schedule and several other important schedules.

The house conferees are inclined to hold out for the house schedule on sugar and wool, but make a compromise on hides. There seems to be no good ground for the argument that the senate amendments are necessary to the adoption of the conference report on the bill, though the senate conferees will put forward this argument with the hope of bringing the house conferees to their terms as was done by the senate in the conference on the Wilson bill.

TORNADO HITS THREE STATES.

Great Damage Done and Several Hurt in the Region of Paducah, Ky.

Paducah, Ky., July 10.—A week of excessive heat ended at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon with a tornado, which swept over Western Kentucky and Southern Illinois, leaving destruction in its path. Nearly all telegraph and telephone wires are down, railroads are blocked by fallen trees and highways for the time being are impassable. Great destruction of property and several persons injured are reported.

The storm broke just as the crowds were leaving the ball park, and a panic ensued. Several women fainted, but no one was injured there. Metropolis and Brooklyn, in Illinois; Mayfield, Eddyville and Kuttawa, in Kentucky, and Paris, Tenn., suffered severely.

Delay Action on Hawaii.

Washington, July 10.—The senate committee on foreign relations made two efforts Friday to secure a full meeting for the purpose of taking up and if possible disposing of the Hawaiian annexation treaty, but failed. The treaty was discussed at some length at the latter session and the more pronounced of the advocates of the treaty suggested the advisability of early action. This suggestion was antagonized, however, by the opponents of ratification and by at least one of the supporters of annexation on the ground that the matter is too important for immediate action. The committee adjourned until next Wednesday.

Many Papers Are Presented.

Toronto, Ont., July 10.—There was a larger attendance at the second day's session of the conference of charities and corrections. At the afternoon session, in the organization of charity, a number of interesting papers were read. Among the names put forward for the chief executive office of the organization for the ensuing year are: Professor C. R. Henderson of Chicago university and Major T. J. Charlton of Plainfield, Ind. The cities which have solicited the honor of entertaining the next conference include New York, Milwaukee, Omaha, Philadelphia and Detroit.

Texas Cattle Infected.

San Antonio, Tex., July 10.—W. W. Tullis, member of the Texas sanitary board, states that he has just found a herd of cattle in Randle county infected with splenetic, or Texas, fever. The herd came from Sterling county, and passed through Howard, Glasscock, Borden, Lynn, Lubbock, Garza, Hale and Swisher, also parts of Sterling and Randle counties. These counties have been quarantined. This will not interfere with the Amarillo trail, which runs west of these counties.

R. F. Fuller Assassinated.

Prescott, Ark., July 10.—R. F. Fuller has been assassinated at Boughton, Ark. The killing took place near his home. The assassin is supposed to be a notorious moonshiner against whom Fuller informed.

THE TRADE REVIEW BY DUN & COMPANY

WEEKLY STATEMENT OF CONDITION OF BUSINESS.

Textile Mills Are Busy—Early Settlement of the Great Coal Miners Strike Is Looked For—More Demand For Both Cotton and Woolen Goods—The Week's Failures.

New York, July 10.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

"The strike of bituminous coal miners has taken 75,000 men or more from work, and threatens to restrict supplies of fuel in some quarters, though the West Virginia and some other mines which declined to take part claim to be able to meet the Eastern demand for some months. At the West the strike is by no means unitedly sustained, and the impression prevails that it will not last long.

"The tin plate works have settled the wage question, and are again busy, and show a production of 4,500,000 boxes yearly, with a capacity of 6,250,000. The bar mills have more trouble, but a general settlement of iron and steel wages is expected without much delay. The cotton mills have a steady and increasing demand. The woolen mills are getting decidedly more orders for fall wants and beginning hopefully on spring goods, but are cautious in contracts for future delivery. There is a better demand for domestic wool in expectation of higher prices.

"While the most cautious estimates of the wheat yield have been advanced, that of the Orange Judd Farmer to 575,000,000 bushels, prices have been lifted nearly 3¼ cents here, although Atlantic exports, flour included, were for the week 1,503,953 bushels, against 418,336 last year. Western receipts are small, only 1,394,632 bushels, against 2,973,409 bushels last year, and the disposition of farmers to hold for higher figures is strengthened by many foreign reports.

"It seems to be the fact that crops in other countries are less promising than usual, and the demand for American wheat is supplemented even at this season by exports of 2,605,594 bushels of corn, against 536,610 bushels for the same week last year.

"Failures for the week have been 206 in the United States, against 215 last year, and 30 in Canada, against 39 last year."

Meeting of the Cabinet.

Washington, July 10.—The main topic of discussion before the cabinet at the regular meeting Friday was the message on the subject of a currency commission, which has been withheld for a few days in deference to the wishes of many prominent Republicans. After considering all of the objections that had been made against the presentation of the message at the present session of congress the president and his cabinet were still of opinion that in order to redeem the party promises the subject of currency reforms should be treated in a message recommending the creation of a special nonpartisan commission, and unless there is another change in the plans of the president he will send the message to congress Monday.

Crops Hopelessly Ruined.

Crookston, Minn., July 10.—Thousands of acres of the finest crops ever seen in the Red River valley have been hopelessly ruined by the storms of the past week. Another deluge of rain and hail swept through the country Thursday night, and the entire section is practically under water. The storm was especially severe at Beltrami, Fertile, Fosston, and through to Red Lake Falls. The fields are under water, and in all low spots wheat will, in all probability be drowned out before the water will drain off. From the Marsh river to Breckenridge the valley is almost a lake, and thousands of acres of wheat are ruined.

Kansans Won't Strike.

Topeka, Kas., July 10.—State Labor Commissioner Johnson says the strike of miners will not extend to Kansas, the miners here being satisfied with the present rate of wages, although there is some complaint because the men only have work about half the time during the summer months. It is probable that the strike in other states will be helpful to Kansas in causing an increased demand for coal. A long strike would undoubtedly help the Kansas market and give the miners increased wages.

Urge Naval Demonstration.

Constantinople, July 9.—(Delayed in transmission.)—The ambassadors of the powers, having been reinstructed by their respective governments about the dispatch of another note to the Turkish government reiterating their demand for an explicit reply on the Greco-Turkish frontier question, it is thought probable that they may recommend their governments to recall them and organize a naval demonstration.

Salt Lake City Is Selected.

Denver, Col., July 10.—The first business of the last session of the international gold mining convention Friday was the selection of a place for holding the next convention in 1898. Salt Lake City was chosen after the other cities which wanted the meeting had been withdrawn. A resolution was adopted providing that the convention petition the government to establish testing stations.

THEY EXTEND HELP TO THE MINERS

GREAT STRIKE CONFERENCE HELD AT PITTSBURG

Important Action Taken—National Officers of Many Great Labor Unions Consult as to the Conditions Which Are to Be Met—Will Not Refuse Arbitration.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 10.—A secret meeting of the heads of prominent labor organizations of the country was held Friday night in this city. Among those present were Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor; President M. M. Garland and Secretary Stephen Madden of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers; D. A. Mahon of Detroit, national president of the Amalgamated Association of Street-Railway Employes; J. M. Hughes, national secretary of the Federated Metal Trades; Simon Burns, national president of the Window-Glass Workers' association; M. P. Carrick, national president of the Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators; M. J. Counahan, national secretary of the Plumbers' union; L. R. Thomas, national president of the Patternmakers' league; W. J. Smith, national president of the American Flint-Glass Workers' union; D. A. Hayes, national president of the Green-Glass Bottle-Blowers' association, and M. D Ratchford, national president of the United Mine-Workers' Union of America.

It was reported that the object of the gathering was to consider a sympathetic strike of other trades against users on non-union coal, consider ways and means to raise a defense fund to carry on the miner's strike, and assist the miners' officials in any way they can. When the meeting went into secret session it was stated it would not adjourn until late.

It was almost midnight before the conference ended. The press committee—Messrs. Gompers, Ratchford and Counahan—then gave out the following statement, in which was incorporated, they said, all that was done at the conference. The manifesto follows:

"Reports were made by Messrs Ratchford, Dolan and Warner, in regard to the situation of the movement and it was demonstrated that the suspension was practically general in the competitive bituminous coal district extending also to Kentucky and Tennessee, excepting a few points in West Virginia. It was realized that the situation in West Virginia required attention in order that the suspension should become absolutely general and success assured. With that object in view, action was recommended by President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, and it was determined upon to overcome this feature of the contest. It was also determined that every effort be made on the part of those present to secure the co-operation and practical aid of organized labor for the struggling miners. Conscious of the great interest which the public has in a contest so widespread as that of the miners' it gives us great satisfaction to know that the miners have not been and are not now opposed to arbitration. We therefore urge and advise that a conference be held by representatives of the miners and operators with the view of arriving at a settlement of the present suspension."

Engineers and Firemen May Quit.

Springville, Ill., July 10.—The strike situation in this city is about the same. All of the 4,000 men here are still idle, and the company men do not show any disposition to return to work, either. If the latter remain out long the mines will start to cave. There has been some talk here of even the engineers and firemen quitting. They get a reduction every time the wages of the miners go down, and they are interested in the outcome of the strike. It is probable that they will work on, but if any scab coal is to be hoisted they will not pull it.

Arbitration Board Busy.

Terre Haute, Ind., July 10.—Gov. Bushnell talked with Secretary Bishop of the Ohio board over the long-distance telephone Friday and told him that the meeting at Pittsburg should be held at once, even if Pennsylvania does not take part in the conference. Bishop left in the afternoon for Xenia, O., where he will meet Commissioner Little of the Ohio board and go on from there to Pittsburg. The Indiana commissioners will leave here at midnight for Pittsburg. It is expected to hold the first formal conference on Monday.

Reached the Boycott Stage.

Columbus, O., July 10.—The coal strike has reached the boycott stage. The officials of the United Mine Workers have declared a boycott upon retail coal dealers who purchase their supply from West Virginia operators. It was decided to communicate with the local trades unions of this and other affected states, asking them to dissuade their members from patronizing retail coal dealers who handled West Virginia non-union coal. Some of these circular letters went out.

Pana Miners Quit Work.

Pana, Ill., July 10.—According to agreement of the miners at their meeting Thursday they have left the mines, to remain out until the big industrial battle is settled. There is not a miner at work in the mines, nor will any return to work, so the men state, until victory or defeat has been declared by the officers of the United Mine Workers' head offices.

Germany and the New Tariff Law.

London, July 10.—A Berlin correspondent telegraphs that the nomination of Baron von Thielmann, at present German ambassador to the United States, as secretary of the imperial treasury in succession to Count Posadowsky-Wehner, is regarded with interest in commercial circles, inasmuch as the action of Germany in connection with the new American tariff will depend on his advice. It is believed that important measures affecting goods imported from the United States are contemplated. The dispatch adds that the Post complains that the United States has paid no attention to Germany's protest against the sugar clause in the new tariff bill, which, the paper contends, is a breach of the Saratoga convention.

G. V. N. Lothrop Dying at Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., July 10.—G. V. N. Lothrop is not expected to survive the day. Dr. McGraw informed the family Tuesday morning that he could not live twenty-four hours. Mr. Lothrop suffers no pain. He lies in a comatose condition. It is merely the passing away due to old age. The end was hastened by the extreme heat of last week. Previous to his collapse of last Sunday Mr. Lothrop had been feeble, but was in full possession of his faculties.

Fails to Agree on a New Scale.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 10.—The joint scale conference of iron and steel sheet manufacturers and the Amalgamated association, which has been in session here for two days, was unable to agree and a final adjournment without a settlement was taken at 12:30 Friday afternoon. No date was fixed for another meeting. The disagreement will affect 25,000 men and cause an indefinite suspension of work in all of the steel sheet mills of the country.

Rabbis Elect Their Officers.

Montreal, July 10.—At the central conference of American rabbis here these officers were elected: President, Dr. Wise of Cincinnati; first vice president, Dr. Leucht of New Orleans; recording secretary, Rabbi Levi of Cincinnati; treasurer, Dr. Hecht of Milwaukee. The conference declared for simplicity in funeral corteges. An invitation to hold the next convention at Boston was received.

Machete for Senator Mason.

Washington, July 10.—Estrada Palma, the head of the Cuban junta in this country, has sent a machete or Cuban battle ax to Senator Mason of Illinois, to be given to his little daughter, Winifred. Mr. Palma states that he makes this present in recognition of Senator Mason's services for free Cuba.

Prince Hohenlohe Talks.

Berlin, July 10.—Prince Hohenlohe, the imperial chancellor, is credited with declaring to well known politicians at Munich that he has no idea of resigning the chancellorship, but enjoys the fullest confidence of the emperor and intends to conduct affairs with even greater energy than heretofore.

MEETING IS ENDED; DELEGATES LEAVE

EDUCATORS CONCLUDE THE MILWAUKEE SESSION

Business of the Thirty-Sixth Annual Convention Finishes Its Work—New President Is Introduced to the Association—To Form a Child Study of a National Character.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 10.—The thirty-sixth annual convention of the National Educational association ended Friday night.

The first speaker of the night session was Richard G. Boone, principal of the Michigan state normal school, who spoke on "Lines of Growth in Maturing." George T. Winston, president of the University of Texas, spoke of "Higher Education in the South."

President James H. Canfield of the Ohio state university delivered an address on the "Winners of Men." He said that the history of all nations had been such as to put intellectual honor last instead of first. The speaker said: "We should bring into existence that pure democracy, where war and riot are things of the past, and it must come through the work of the schools. We must have men in our public schools who are winners of men and who are leaders."

President-elect James M. Greenwood of Kansas City was then introduced by Charles R. Skinner, the outgoing president, amid a pronounced demonstration, and the convention adjourned.

Before the final adjournment the steps were taken for the organization of a national child-study association. It will be formed by combining a number of child-study organizations.

Wisconsin Bankers Meet.

Waukesha, Wis., July 10—The delegates in attendance at the State Bankers' association meeting passed Friday morning in an informal manner. The business meeting was called at the court house at 10 o'clock. President A. J. Frame of Waukesha delivered the annual address on the subject "Can the Severity of Panics Be Ameliorated?" W. K. Coffin of Eau Claire was chosen president. The meeting was closed with a banquet at the Fountain house at night. There were nearly 500 in attendance.

Universalists in Convention.

Detroit, Mich., July 10.—The Universalist Young People opened their national convention Friday with a devotional meeeting on the topic "Confidence in Victory," led by Rev. Leslie Moore, of New Hampshire. Dr. Schweitzer, of Philadelphia, addressed the convention, counseling harmony in settlement of the dispute between the union and the general convention of the church on account of the absorption by the union of the functions of what was formerly the Young People's Missionary Society. Action on this question will be taken later. The remainder of the morning session was taken up in the raising of a $100 deficit in the treasury of the union. Dr. George L. Perin, of Boston, took charge of this, and succeeded in raising over $1,000.

Baker, United States consul at Rosario, who has been very ill for some time, died there Thursday. It is understood that he was injured in a wreck in the Argentine republic.

Oregon's Errand Peaceful.

Washington, July 10.—The battleship Oregon has sailed from Seattle for Port Angelus for coal. This fact having been construed in some quarters into a movement toward Hawaii, it is declared at the navy department that there is not the slightest intention of sending the ship there. She is bound for San Francisco, and has stayed at Seattle, where she went solely to help out in the Fourth of July celebration, longer than was intended by the department.

PASTOR IS SCORED BY MAYOR JENSON

EDGERTON PEOPLE DISCUSS REV. MR. COLE'S SERMON.

Chief Executive of the City Declares That the Fact That a Man Is a Minister Does Not Make Him a Competent Advisor Outside of His Calling.

All Edgerton people are discussing the sermon delivered by Rev. Mr. Cole, the Methodist minister, who said that Satan would manage that town differently if he was mayor with his own imps for aldermen.

Rev. Mr. Cole sends The Reporter this communication. "I beg permission to correct what I regard as a mistaken conclusion concerning a discourse delivered in Methodist church Sunday evening, June 27 by the pastor. The discourse in question was written and read. Following is a correct wording of that part referring to the mayor, council and city government.

"But first, look at our town. Edgerton is not the worst town by any means, neither is it the best, and I am pretty well acquainted with towns in Wisconsin and I say what I know when I say that Edgerton is an awful town in which to bring up a family. Just look at our city government. I do not wish to say a word that will reflect on our mayor, nor do I want you to construe anything I may say as a reflection on him, for I think he is a good man. But really things are run queerly.

With Reference to Satin.

"Now let us suppose a case; of course it is not possible, it could not be done, but stretch your imagination and suppose it were possible, that the devil could be elected mayor of our city, and that he were to import his own imps, with odor of brimstone on them fresh from below, for a council. And now the devil and his aldermen were to look over our city. Do you think they would see the need of putting in any more saloons than now exist? I think not. Do you think where the most flagrant violations of law exist in the saloon management, that our new council would do any less than not to revoke the license? I think not. Do you think they would see the need of any more lewdness to exist among us than does now exist? I think not. Now it seems to me that things run about as they would if old Satan had full management, else I am not very well acquainted with him and I used to know him quite well. I used to be in his service."

Mayor Jenson's Reply.

Mayor Andrew Jenson also writes a communication to The Reporter, in which he discusses the sermon as follows:

"I am very sorry that Rev. Cole, pastor of the Methodist church of this city, should find it necessary to use such violent language against the city of Edgerton. While I do not presume that Rev. Cole intended his remarks as an attack on the persons now holding offices, I find it my duty as a citizen to protest against that kind of public expressions. I shall not attempt, therefore, to defend myself or the city council against the accusations made by the Method at pastor.

"He is, as everybody knows, a citizen of less than one year's experience in Edgerton and he cannot expect people with good sense to believe him when he uses such authoritative language concerning our city affairs as he did in one of his sermons, part of which was quoted in The Reporter of last week. His remarks are too ludicrous to engage the attention of serious men and women.

Offers Friendly Word

"I only wish to say a word in a friendly way to Mr. Cole concerning the position in which he has placed himself by his virulent remarks. We admit that our council and other city officers may fall short of the expectations of their constituents in more ways than one. They may fall short even of their own ambition in their endeavor to serve the city—not to speak of those people, a few of whom we find in every community who it is impossible to satisfy, and their demands exceed the possibilities of human endeavor, but we trust that a fair minded public with as much good will as they have good sense, will excuse failures due not to wickedness or evil intentions, but to human inability to make things what they ought to be. Mr. Cole himself has probably experienced that where even the best intentions and most honest efforts were made to serve a community well, there were persons to be found who did not put the best construction on such efforts.

Where Rev. Mr. Cole Fails.

"A christian minister, more than any one else is expected to be a an example of wisdom and consideration both in speech and action even when he believes it his duty to swing the whip of chastisement over wickedness and corruption, but it seems to me that Rev. Cole has sadly failed in these points in his lecture on the way in which our city affairs are being conducted. If I understand a christian pastor's calling aright it is not his business to sit upon the judgment seat and condemn his fellow men when they don't behave to suit the whims of his personal feelings, but his business is first of all to feed his flock on the good pastures of the word of God.

"Not only the city of Edgerton called Mr. Cole to be their teacher in matters of government, but a Methodist congregation in our city received him as a spiritual adviser and a teacher in things pertaining to eternal affairs. It is my most sincere conviction that if all ministers of the gospel attended to the preaching of the gospel, which is their business, instead of as many of them do in our days, filling the souls that hunger for spiritual bread with quasi political chaff of their own invention, they would do not only their congregations more good, but there would be less need of wholesale condemnation of affairs in municipalities and state.

Duties of a Pastor.

"Because a man is a preacher he is not always a competent adviser in matters of government, and it is a common observation that ministers who pay too much attention to the affairs of the municipalities where they reside are incompetent expounders of the gospel. If their hearts are in the city hall their congregations will hear more about the things conducted there than about the ways of the Lord.

"A true christian pastor has no time to spare for politics if he shall attend properly to his calling as a minister of the gospel. Let every congregation give its pastor to understand what he is called to do and have him do this properly, and if he in exercising his duty as a citizen, should find it necessary to sound a warning note to his fellow citizens against corruption and misgovernment, then let him be careful and use such language that for bitterness in form shall not take away the sweetness of the matter.

REGRET.

There is a feeling called vain regret,
That leaves the heart sad, the lashes wet.
In the most refined natures it is oftenest met,
The past and its sorrows we long to forget.

It may be unrequited love that casts the spell,
Or the death of a dear one we loved so well,
The faithlessness of friends with whom we dwell,
Or the loss of sweet hope as it withered and fell.

We regret that there is no way to know,
Who are pure and true in this world below.
Faith is our safeguard, we deem it so,
Yet doubt comes along and brings it's woe.
There is not a woman in the world today
However pure, but sometimes will say:
(I don't know what she is) "May be all right in her way;
But she's only a woman; they're all made of clay."

The same of the men—is there one that's true?
(Oh, no not one) and yet there might be a few.
We regret that there's no justice and life looks blue;
Alas, if we could tell, if we only knew.

Unfortunately, we are not brander, and we cannot tell
The good from the bad, yet we think we know well.
We trust we have faith yet oftimes the spell
Of regret murks our senses, like a funeral knell.

FEAR COAL FAMINE IF STRIKE LASTS

LOCAL FIRMS MAY RUN OUT OF FUEL.

Supplies That Were Bought In Anticipation of Labor Troubles In May Are Beginning to Run Short—Steam Plants Use Large Quantities In Course of a Year.

Unless the great coal strike is settled soon, Janesville manufacturing plants may suffer from a "coal famine." The railroad companies have been confiscating coal sent over their lines and the supply is getting very short. Immense quantities of soft coal are used in the United States and a supply that the average person might think was enough to make steam for the factories of the world last but a very short time if used for steam making in Wisconsin alone. Hence, the prospect for a famine.

"I am reading the papers for news of the coal strike with a great deal of interest" said the manager of a local plant where large quantities of coal are used. "We have a fairly good supply, but not enough to last us long. We always figure on labor disturbances in May and calculate to have enough on hand to run us beyond that month. Figuring that there would be no more trouble after May, I neglected to buy coal except as we have needed it.

"Now we are pretty close to the bottom of the bins and a strike is ordered. I hope they can settle their differences and get back to work pretty soon. If they do not we will be seriously embarrassed."

THE BUYERS ARE SORRY NOW

Many a man who purchased a high grade bicycle within the past few months, paying therefor $100, is now lamenting since the price has been slashed in two by several of the manufacturers.

It is generally believed that the practice of selling '97 model bicycles below the list price, which has been carried on since the opening of the bicycle season, will now proceed openly among the various dealers. A well-known wheelman discussing the recent cut and its possible effects says:

"It has happened that the cost of manufacture has been reduced considerably in the past few years, thus making reductions in price possible, but this is not known to the public generally. It is quite clear, however, that the bulk of the trade hereafter is to be in wheels of a very moderate price, but of good quality. For the present the public are thoroughly set on getting good bicycles at an outlay of not over $50. It is quite clear that the makers who put out the best grade of wheels for '98 at this price will get the largest business.

"More expensive wheels at $75, or even more, will have a large sale if they seem to the public to be worth their price but there will be little use in asking such prices unless such machines are evidently superior to the cheaper ones in finish, detail and equipment. Heretofore there has been too little observable difference in wheels of different prices. The makers of high price '97 wheels have lost very many sales on this account."

Nervous

People often wonder why their nerves are so weak; why they get tired so easily; why they start at every slight but sudden sound; why they do not sleep naturally; why they have frequent headaches, indigestion and nervous

Dyspepsia

The explanation is simple. It is found in that impure blood which is continually feeding the nerves upon refuse instead of the elements of strength and vigor. In such condition opiate and nerve compounds simply deaden and do not cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla feeds the nerves pure, rich, red blood; gives natural sleep, perfect digestion, is the true remedy for all nervous troubles.

NEW RAILROAD IS FINISHED

Cambridge Line Is Ready for Train Service --Celebration Held.

The completion of the Chicago & Lake Superior railroad from London to Cambridge is announced. The tracks, have been ballasted, switches put in, the grounds fenced and a depot built and painted, and everything in readiness for train service. The formal opening occurred Monday, and a grand celebration of the event combined with a Fourth of July celebration, was held. It was just fifty years ago that the first observation of our natal day was held in Cambridge. During all these long years the people have trudged along, working with a will in the hopes of some day seeing a railroad in the village. Hon. E. W. Keyes of Madison was one of the first to come to our village. He attended the celebration here 50 years ago and on Monday last he was orator of the day, giving us a reminiscent oration. Many of the old settlers in this vicinity were intensely interested in his remarks which were brim full of enthusiasm.

A Smart Omaha Woman.

Among the great mercantile establishments in Omaha only one is under the supervision of a woman, Mrs. Jennie Benson. For nine years Mrs. Benson has conducted this commercial enterprise, each year enlarging her business until today it is next to the largest store in the city. She is an Omaha woman and employs only women. She does her own purchasing, making trips to Chicago and New York. Mrs. Benson is on the sunny side of 40 and, in addition to being one of the leading merchants of the city, is a society favorite and one of the handsomest women in Omaha. She finds time from her business duties to give considerable attention to literature and to society. Altogether she is regarded as a most extraordinary woman. All of the immense capital she is now handling is the result of her own labors.—Omaha Letter in Chicago Record.

Surplice Waists.

Surplice waists of thin dresses, says a New York fashion writer, have the fullness from the shoulders prettily shaped into a pointed yoke by drawing baby ribbon through narrow openwork insertions about an inch wide. These are carried from the inside of the arm seam to a point in front. The ribbons meet there and are tied in a Marie Antoinette knot. Surplice waists of embroidered muslin have their front edges straight from the shoulders down to the belt on the opposite side finished with a fine lace edged plaited frill, then crossed. The V space thus left is bordered with a standing and falling frill, caught together below the chin with a little jeweled lace pin, and velvet ribbon is worn round the throat.

When You Get Ready.

When you have consulted everybody else and have been treated for every known and unknown disease; when you have filled your system with one-pattern, ready-made, same-for-all, sure-cure preparations; when you have tried charms, spells, fakes, fads and fancies; if experience has taught you that Nature alone possesses the power to heal; that certain remedies assist Nature, but none of them cure; that it is better to work with Nature then to fight the disease; that the surest way to cure disease is to remove the cause of that disease, then we will gladly assist you with Rational remedies and methods which tend to build up and strengthen the entire system until Nature can assert herself and the Cause of disease is removed.

We treat the Patient, not the disease. This is one reason why we succeed where others have failed.

We have been in Janesville more than ten months and are here to stay. Consultation, opinion and advice free.

A REPUBLICAN TRIUMPH.

It was expected even so late as January and February this year that the deficit for the twelve months ended a few days ago would exceed $70,000,000, but on account of the turning of the financial tide in March it has been only $18,623,107. Instead of being the largest deficit for the entire panic period, it has been the smallest. Moreover, the change from a monthly shortage to a surplus which started in March is still under way, for in June revenues exceeded expenditures to the extent of more than $13,000,000.

These figures afford some justification for republican jubilation. Most of the recent increase in treasury receipts and the consequent change from monthly deficits of the preceding four years to the monthly surpluses of the present time has been due, of course, to the crowding in of importations, in order to escape the higher duties which will be imposed by the Dingley law, and this will result in a corresponding decrease in importations and revenue for a few months after the act goes into operation. Nevertheless, some of the increase is due to the general revival in business which has come as a consequence of republican victory. Even under republican sway the Wilson act, which will soon be displaced by the Dingley law, would probably not yield enough revenue under normal conditions to meet the government's needs, but it would come much nearer to this than it did under the democratic regime. A general quickening in the entire circle of the country's activities started immediately after the republican victory, and part of the improvement in the government's balance sheet is unquestionably due to this cause.

A NEW FORM OF DAMAGE SUIT.

Just as Janesville tax payers thought they had discovered every form of damage suit in the books, a new case has arisen in Menasha. Certain parties there have begun suit for damages against the city for loss in business due to the bad condition of the streets. If a man suffer physical injury through a defective pavement there is no question as to his claim against the city. Why, they ask, should there be any difference if the bad pavement injure him financially by keeping away trade?

The Menasha case will be watched with interest in Janesville. Janesville's juries have been very liberal with damage verdicts and doubtless will welcome an enlargement of their powers.

The prospect is alluring in every respect. Nobody need work if the Menasha case goes the right way. There will be liberal verdicts for every man living or doing business on a badly-kept street. As a logical consequence there also must be verdicts for those who wish to drive, ride or walk on those streets and are prevented by mud holes and ruts. As the Milwaukee Journal points out in considering the question, a mud hole which drives the public out of a street is just as bad as a rock which wreck a vehicle. The difference is only in the person sustaining the damage. Nor is the case differet when a farmer has to drive a longer way, carry less load, consuming more time, by a bad piece of road.

The great drawback to city damage suits, heretofore, has been the necessity of providing a broken leg or an injured spine. The Menasha court by wiping out this requirement will do more to relieve the financial stringency than congress could do with three tariff bills.

Dick Croker's money must be running short, or he would not have announced his intention of returning to New York and taking charge of the Tammany campaign for control of greater New York, a campaign which hasn't three chances out of ten to win

It is a little early to begin the next presidential campaign, but a "Bryan wagon," with two volunteer speakers has started from Kansas to the east, to carry the gospel of free silver to the benighted citizens of that section. The volunteers will probably find that the men they have started out to convert know more about the money question than they do.

Probably the most surprised man in the senate when that body, without a division, accepted Senator Mills' tariff amendment to increase the tax on playing cards from 2 to 20 cents a pack, was Mr. Mills.

The man who thinks that the future success if the republican party depends upon who gets either one or one hundred federal offices, should take something to strengthen his thinking apparatus.

The Iowa republican majority ought to be largely increased this year, as Mr. Bryan and Senator Tillman are booked for democratic speeches in the state.

The self-appointed critics of the tariff bill would do well to remember that nothing is perfect and that finding fault is always easy.

Maryland republicans should remember that, "United we stand; divided we fall," is as true now as it ever was.

Ex-Gov. Boies probably wouldn't care if the stone he threw at free coinage should strike and disable W. J. Bryan.

Judging from public expressions of opinion by Ohio democrats, their opinion of each other is quite as bad as ever.

A CHILD MADE SICK BY INTENSE HEAT

DEATH FOLLOWS A RIDE IN THE COUNTRY.

Babe's Temperature Registered At 107 When Dr. Pember Arrived, and His Demise Occurred Soon Afterward—Adolph Harvey Found Unconscious On the Floor At De Forest's Bakery

As the result of the intense heat, one death has been recorded in this city. The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Vobian, of 303 Western avenue, was stricken and died soon after medical assistance had been summoned.

Mr. and Mrs. Vobian decided to spend a day with friends who resided nine miles from this city. They took their infant child with them. The drive was made without incident but when the return trip was undertaken the sweltering rays of the sun were felt. When Mr. and Mrs. Vobian reached their Western avenue home the babe was very ill. Dr. J. F. Pember, who was summoned found the little one's pulse registering 107 degrees, and in spite of all that could be done, the babe died.

Adolph Sievert, who resides on Benton avenue, was overcome with heat while working at the Newville bridge, yesterday, and is very sick. Dr. James Mills is attending him.

A Baker is Overcome.

In a room where the thermometer registered 125 degrees aaove, Adolph Harvey, head baker at the Beaumont DeForest bakery 107 West Milwaukee street, lay for over an hour this morning, unconscious on the floor.

At 4 o'clock this morning he managed to reach the door where he was discovered by a fellow workman who summoned help.

The prostrated man was then removed to his home 71 Palm street and Dr. George Chittenden was summoned. Mr. Harvey is a very sick man. His condition although, but slightly improved today, is not alarming and it is thought that he will soon be himself again.

Last evening Mr. Harvey prepared his night's baking as usual and the baking room seemed no hotter than on previous nights. About three o'clock this morning the heat in the room was intense and thermometers showed 125 above zero. Even at this high temperature, Mr. Harvey says he did not at first feel the heat but as time on it gradually had an effect and he finally collapsed.

Gooseberries Cooked by the Sun.

Milton, Wis., July 10—The heat here for this week has been intense and yesterday was a world beater the mercury running up to 100 in the shade. At 5 a. m. it was 78 Two men were prostrated by heat yesterday, but without fatal results. Miles Rice who has extensive currant and gooseberry fields, reports that the latter were so badly cooked that he cannot ship them and is obliged to spice and can them. The market for currants is so low that he is putting them into jelly and is canning 400 or 500 tumblers daily. Mr. Rice is furnishing employment to fifty men, women and children at good wages in his small fruit business.

Engineer Overcome at Beloit.

Beloit, Wis., July 10—The fearful heat continues. Work in the factories was about suspended yesterday. Perry Langley of Milwaukee, a locomotive engineer on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, was overcome by the heat in this city yesterday, and has since been in a delirious condition, but is convalescing. Horses have suffered much. One fell dead on the street yesterday.

SCHOOL OPENS ON MONDAY

Summer Institute Will Begin at the New High School

The Wisconsin Summer Institute and Review school will meet for regular work next Monday morning at 9 o'clock. William Hawley Smith, the humorous pedagogue, will be here and will conduct his first exercise Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock. The public lecture and entertainment by Smith will be given in the high school room at 8:30 o'clock Thursday evening. Admission 25 cents.

Citizens of Janesville will interest themselves especially in the department of art, of music and of expression Each of these departments is under the charge of a specialist and such an opportunity for securing instruction at a very low rate should be improved. This is not a money making venture. The management has been determined to present the best instructors without regard to expense and it is hoped that the school will meet with the support of all citizens of Janesville.

JOHN NICHOLS IS TO RETIRE

In the year 1839 Mr. Nichols received his diploma from the law department of Williams college at Williamstown, Mass. In 1847 he hung out his law sign in this city and from that year until now he has been actively engaged in the practice of law.

POTTER IS IN COURT TO TELL HIS STORY

HIS WIFE CAUSES HIS ARREST AGAIN.

Sheriff Acheson Got Him At Belvidere Yesterday, And He Must Answer to the Charge of Non-Support—An Adjournment Is Taken—Other Court Cases.

William S. Potter came up from Belvidere yesterday in company with Sheriff Acheson, and this morning appeared in the municipal court to answer to the charge of non-support of his wife, Victoria Potter, preferred by her. The case was adjourned until next Wednesday, and bail fixed at $300.

This is not the first time Mr. Potter has been before the bar of justice on a similar charge. On April 26 he stood trial in the municipal court and, pending a decision of the case decided to support his wife. A settlement was reached and the case dropped, upon payment of the costs of the action by Potter.

Now it is claimed by the wife that she has up to date received little more than promises, and she says that this time she is going to clinch matters. Sutherland & Nolan are the attorneys for the defendant, and William A. Jackson appears for the state.

In the civil action of Pauline J. Van Galder, Albert C. Van Galder, Clarence O. Van Galder, Henry D. Van Galder and Henrietta Overton, plaintiffs, against Legora Rooney and Thomas Rooney, defendants, involving certain promisory notes, Judge Phelps rendered judgment for $234 71 in favor of the plaintiffs, that sum being the full amount of their claim.

A "Hoss Case" in Court.

When Christ. Prien assumes the role of a philanthropist, it will be cooler weather than that which ruled humanity yesterday.

It all came about in this way: Mr. Prien was driving in the town of Rock on the east side of the river, about five miles from Janesville, when he came to a horse badly tangled up in a barbed wire fence. Prien went to the rescue and after half an hour's hard work, not unmixed with danger, succeeded in extricating the animal. Its condition was such as called for prompt attention, and Prien took the horse to the house of Mr. Dickson, owner of the land where it was found. Dickson did not own the animal, and suggested that Prien take it to a veterinary surgeon in Janesville. Accordingly he started on a hot, dusty ride of five miles, leading a crippled horse.

On nearing his destination, and on Court street, David Brown the feed man, stopped Prien and claimed the horse as his property. The latter was willing to give up the animal, but thought that his services were worth something, naming the figure of $3. Upon this Brown, he said, assaulted him, etc., against the peace and dignity of the state of Wisconsin, and at the same time appropriated the horse. This is Prien's story. Mr. Brown will tell his story in the municipal court on next Tuesday at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

FAIR STOCKHOLDERS MEET

Many Favor the Reorganization of the Society--The Indebtedness.

Thirty-three stockholders attended the meeting of the Rock County Agricultural society this afternoon at the court house, for the purpose of determining whether or not to continue the annual fairs. James Scott was chosen as chairman and Alderman O. K. Miltimore secretary. The report read by Secretary George M. McKey showed that 130 of the 228 special assessments, of $800 each had been paid. The mortgages amount to $9,250, the floating indebtness $226 and the amount owed as premium at $1522 35 together with other debts that brings the figures up to about $12,000. Several of those at the meeting favored a reorganization of the society and suggests that in order to carry out the plan the property should be placed in the hands of a receiver.

A SWITCH LIGHT EXPLODED

Close Call for a Fire in the C. & N. W. Yards Last Night.

An exploding lamp came near putting an end to the sand warehouse in the Northwestern railroad yards last evening at 7:30 o'clock. In the lower portion of the house a number of the switch lights are kept. Last evening as six of the lighted lamps stood in row, one of them suddenly flared up and exploded, knocking the others about the room in all directions. Prompt action on the part of the railroad men was all that saved the structure, and as it was, the interior was scorched considerably.

HAVOC WAS WROUGHT BY WIND AND BOLTS

SEVERE STORM PASSES OVER EDGERTON AND VICINITY.

Woman's Face Is Blistered By Lightning—W Henzel's Barn Is Fired and Cattle and Horses Burned—J. B Shaw's Shed Wrecked By a Cyclone and Implements Ruined

A severe storm swept over the northern part of the county at 7 o'clock last night and did much damage. Wind, rain and lightning combined forces and held high carnival.

At Edgerton a bolt of lightning struck the residence of Henry Marsden. It entered at the north east corner of the roof of the house and passed through the ground at the south west corner. Mr. and Mrs. Marsden were in the house at the time and Mrs Marsden was quite seriously injured the bolt blistering one side of her face. Otherwise both Mr. and Mrs. Marsden escaped injury, although the house was quite extensively damaged.

The wind blew a gale at Edgerton Many trees were blown down and broken, while outbuildings and other hastily built edifices were leveled or unroofed.

The rainfall was not copious, but the gale was strong and the lightning flashes were frequent.

Barn and Stock Burned.

At the farm of W. Hensel, two and one-half miles west of Edgerton, a bolt of lightning struck a large barn while the storm was at its height, about 7 o'clock. The bolt fired the building and in a few moments the whole structure was wrapped in flames. Nothing could be done to save the barn or its contents. The horses and cattle quartered in the building were burned. Mr. Henzel's loss is about $800.

At the same hour, a miniature cyclone whirled over J. B. Shaw's premises, leveling a fine new tobacco shed to the earth. The shed cost Mr. Shaw $700, and was completely wrecked. Mr. Shaw sells agricultural implements, and had a number stored in the building. Many of them were wrecked when the building collapsed, and his loss on both building and tools will be quite large.

The storm seemed to pass along in a well defined course, and outside of this belt, but little damage is reported.

No one can say "I won't have neuralgia, rheumatism, earache or any other acute pain." But every one who knows there's a bottle of Kickapoo Indian Oil in the house can say: "I won't have neuralgia or any other pain long." The power of this oil over pain is the greatest marvel of modern medicine. It controls pain at once. It cures the cause promptly. There's no remedy reaches so many kinds of pain as

STRONG AND HEALTHY.

Swinging Indian Clubs Helps to Keep Marion Dillon Well and Happy.

Here is Marion Dillon at her morning exercise of swinging Indian clubs. You can see what a strong, healthy looking girl Marion is. Now, this is all because she is never idle, for although she studies real hard she takes so much exercise and does so much work for her mother that she is never sick. Everything she does is done in real earnest, just as she is swinging those clubs now. There was a time, when your mammas and papas were children, that there were no Indian clubs to swing. But now wise folks, doctors and such say that swinging clubs and going through a lot of exercises, that they give a great long name to that you never could pronounce, is good to keep people when they grow up from being round shouldered and having perhaps consumption and such things. And I suppose they are right. For you can look and see what a great, strong, healthy girl Marion Dillon is, and all from swinging Indian clubs.—Ellen Ring in Weekly Bouquet.

How Jumbo Saved a Life.

Animals are funny things, especially elephants. You never know when you are sure of them. Some are kind all their lives, as old Jumbo was, and some are kind part of the time, but break out at last, and some are just born cussed. That little fellow that Jumbo died to save from the train was just a natural born comedian, and when he was about four feet high he attracted more crowds to see him raise Cain than all the others with their learned tricks. Poor old Jumbo! How the children did love him, and how he loved them! There is no doubt about it, he did just love them.

"I remember one day—I forget if it was in Chicago or St. Louis—the children were riding him," says an old showman, talking for the Philadelphia Times, "and he was carrying them up and down along a sort of road, with the crowd on either side to see him do it. With his load on his back he was coming swinging at a good, round pace up to where he discharged his cargo, when a tiny tot of about 4 years, a pretty little girl, wriggled away from her mother's hand and started to run across in front of the advancing Jumbo to join a little friend opposite. Her foot tripped, and down she went, right under the elephant's feet. Well, the crowd turned faint in a moment, expecting to see the child mashed; but, quick as a wink, that noble old beast, going full tilt, whipped his trunk around that child and landed her, safe and sound, up to the mahout on his head. Say, I can hear the cheering yet. There is many an old showman who takes half a day in New York to go and have a look at Jumbo's skeleton up in the park."

Testing a Boy's Nerve.

There are several ways to test a boy's "nerve," two of which are very simple, and, when tried where there is a large company of young folk, are likely to cause no end of laughter and fun.

The first is known as the trapeze trick. Any ordinary gymnasium trapeze, suspended ring or even a rope swing may be used. Have the boy whose nerve is to be tested stand upright under the trapeze, and then some of the other boys let it down until the rung, or swing board, just brushes the hair. Now let some one pull the trapeze well over to one side and give it a sharp throw in the direction of the standing boy. Of course the rung, or swingboard, cannot possibly touch the boy's head, but it is a nervy boy who will continue to stand upright with his eyes open and let the trapeze swing over him at full speed. Almost invariably he will duck or dodge at the critical moment, while the other boys shout with laughter. It may also be tried with the rung one, two or three inches above the boy's head, and still he will duck, because to him it looks as if the trapeze must surely strike his head.

Another simple test is performed with a mirror and is amusing alike to boys and to girls. Have all the party go to the top of a flight of stairs. Here furnish one boy with a mirror and direct him to hold it horizontally before him with the glass up. Then, as he looks into it, have him try to walk down the stairs. He will stumble and step high, and if he dares to walk downward at all it will be with many laughable stops.—Chicago Record.

Hint For Boys and Girls.

Learn to drink from a public fountain cup, if you must do this, without touching the rim. Put the lower lip in the water first and tilt the cup higher than usual. When children want "drinks" from the railway mug, pass a clean cambric handkerchief over the rim next the lips. But it is a small matter to carry a tiny tumbler on any journey or walk.—Brooklyn Eagle.

The Modified Sleeve.

The modified sleeve grows prettier and more fascinating in style as it appears formed of all the sheer and dainty summer textiles and garnitures. Never were models more of "happy medium" contour or more appropriately trimmed than now. The new shapes and effects are legion. The foundation or basis of most of the popular styles is a closely fitted shape incasing the arm like a long glove, either flat and very close if the arm is plump or wrinkled its entire length if overslender. The best models are silk lined and have an underarm piece—that is, the sleeve is made with two seams. The decorations at the top vary constantly as each modiste tries her art at devising new effects from those she has studied. There are sleeves—like skirts and bodices—for every sort of fabric, for every age and size and for day and evening wear.

For a thin arm a pretty style for evening toilets of transparent material is the Victorian model, made first of tinted silk. Over this the thin fabric is shirred into two inch puffs, each shirring forming a tiny standing frill. This arrangement covers the entire length of the sleeve, and the effect of rose color, mauve, golden, green, etc., through the transparent textile above it is lovely. At the top the airy fabric is draped over a puff of the tinted silk, or there is merely a butterfly drapery of the thin goods or triple ruffles edged with lace. Many of the French evening sleeves, in both black and white, are finished at the top and also at the flaring wrists with fairy frills of accordion plaited lisse.—New York Post.

Serge Gowns For Traveling.

Blue serge has always been associated with long journeys, for so many hundreds and thousands of women have found it the best of materials to travel and live in.

There are many reasons in favor of serge for traveling gowns. It does not rumple like linen or mohair, and then there is a great advantage in the extra warmth it possesses, for though the day may be cool when one starts off by evening the weather may change, and a serge jacket seems most comfortable to slip on over the shirt waist.

Emphatically the best and smartest gowns in this material are those made quite plainly, and with coat and skirt. There are many styles in coats and jackets, and the most becoming is the best. The eton is easiest to carry, but the longer coats are the more generally becoming. Rows of braid and milliners' folds are seen on many of the new skirts, but so long as it is possible to wear the plain ones it is well to do so. The jacket should be lined with some bright but not too heavy silk, and the narrow revers faced with black silk give a smarter look than when they are made of the material. Blue serge is more satisfactory for general wear than black.—Harper's Bazar.

Dynamite Kills Five.

Lexington, Ky., July 10.—While workmen were excavating on the line of the street railway one of them struck what appeared to be a piece of pipe, but which proved to be a sixty-four-pound dynamite cartridge. An explosion followed, and five of the six men in the gang were blown to atoms. The other one was so badly injured that he cannot recover. The police are inclined to think the dynamite was placed there by some one who had a grudge against the street car company.

ON AN ACTRESS.

Aye, she played rarely, though it had been played
A hundred times, and some of more renown
Have played it worse, but she bewitched the town.
Dowered with ethereal loveliness, she swayed
All hearts to love, while music lent soft aid.
She moved, she spoke, and, when she would, drew down
Laughter unquenchable, the player's crown,
Symbol that all her frolic rule obeyed.
Aye, she played rarely, but myself, who knew
What grief had gripped her in its chill embrace,
Could hear dumb weeping in her words, and through
Her every pose the anguished soul could trace
And pierce the frippery of art unto
The pallor shining in her perfect face.

THE NAZIM'S JEM.

I had been ill with fever. They tell me that it was a severe illness and that the outcome was for many days in doubt. Twice, they said, my feet pressed on the verge of the dark valley, and twice was I drawn back. I know little of this personally. For two weeks or more I was either delirious or unconscious. Then, one bright May morning, I came back from the land of shadows.

It seemed to me, as I lay there, that my mind was unnaturally acute. I fancied that my enfeebled physical condition accentuated the action of my brain. It seemed as if the rest I had given it—the rest, at least, from lucid action—had reinvigorated it. I remember that I threw a great deal of thought into the construction of the first connected sentence I addressed to my man. This is what I said:

"Any letters, George?"

He started up hastily.

"Letters, sir? Yes, sir, letters and a telegram."

"Read the telegram," I said, after another spell of thought.

He tore open the yellow envelope.

"Just heard of your illness. Start for home today. Mary."

Mary is my promised wife. I recalled that she was at Colorado Springs with her invalid mother when I fell ill. I looked at George. He must have read my question. He seemed to make a momentary calculation.

"If all goes well, sir, she should be here today."

Mary was coming. The thought acted on me like a tonic. I wanted to throw aside the blankets and leap to the floor. Gods! And I couldn't even raise my arm.

He smiled and smoothed the blankets above me.

"Everything shall be as presentable as possible, sir," he said.

As presentable as possible? That note of exception must mean me. Never mind, Mary was coming, Mary loved me too well to take offense at my changed appearance.

"George," I said, "the world is still outside there, I suppose. Read the newspaper."

He read to me for half an hour or more, read the news just as it came to hand—telegraph, local, political. For a time his voice has simply a lulling effect. Then I began to take notice of the substance of what he read. When I had heard all I wanted, I bade him stop and let the substance of his reading filter through my brain. As I strove to recall it all there was an item that seemed to hold my fancy in a peculiar way. It was a telegram which told that a nizam of far Hindustan had been robbed of an almost priceless diamond which it was understood he meant to present to Queen Victoria at the time of the coming jubilee. This story, I say, seemed to fascinate me—the diamond of the nizam, filched from its oriental owner, gleaming mayhap from the dusky corner of some squalid hut when it should be eclipsing the jewels of a queen. And Mary was coming. What a gift for Mary that diamond would be—Mary, my queen! There was a strange humming in my head, but out of it all came one clear thought—I would get that diamond and give it to Mary. When I had determined on this, I seemed to grow cool and calculating. I realized how helpless I was physically, but my will power, thank God, was still left me. I would concentrate my mind on the thief. I would will him to come to me.

I had read somewhere that the soul in a body purified by the fire of disease rises above the restrictions of common clay. Was not my soul so purified? I fixed my thought upon the nizam's diamond.

Red clouds rolling rapidly; out of them a touch of blue sky, a whirl of yellow dust, a sun that beat down fiercely from midheaven; the walls of a city, a city with queer minarets and towers, and strange palaces; a city with a huge gateway through which passed in and out a motley array of strange garbed people; bullocks and carts, and then a lumbering elephant, and red coated soldiers, and white turbaned men with brown faces. And the air was hot and dry, and a strange odor came to my nostrils.

Then in a corner by the huge portals I noted a crouching figure—a turbaned native with strange rings in his ears and an eye that gleamed with a startling whiteness. And on him my thought centered. Then he arose from his bent position and slunk forth. As he passed amid the snarling dogs that fought and yelped beyond the city walls I noticed that in the folds of his garments he held a long, keen knife. Ever and anon he looked over his shoulder as he slouched along. And the sun glared, and the desert spread before him, and the dust arose in yellow puffs.

Then came two native soldiers riding on weary horses, and they cried out at sight of the footman. And when they dismounted to seize him the knife flashed, and one soldier lay silent at his feet, and the other fled across the gleaming desert, and the knife was red.

There were clouds and confused scenes, and out from them all the man with the red knife pressed on, in his eyes a strange light, a gleam, half terror, half desperation, the look of a haunted man, whose fate impels him forward. Then another city, a city of whitewashed walls and many huts and few palaces and stretches of the sea and the masts of ships.

The swish of waves, and the roaring of the wind, and the rattle of cordage, and in the midst of the ship the brown faced man calmly indifferent to the tempest.

More clouds and long blanks of chaotic nothingness. My eyes find themselves gazing at the wall of my room, and presently it opens and through it steps the man who crouched by the city gates. Step by step he comes to my bedside, and his eye glistens and his knife is red, and my eye never leaves his.

Then he pauses and bends low with his arms outstretched.

"Sahib," he murmurs, and his voice is singularly low and gentle, "I am here."

"The diamond!" I hoarsely murmur.

He removes his turban and slowly unwinds its many folds. As he does so the room seems filled with the rustle of garments, and a strange, sweet perfume comes to me. There are whispers, too, and a sound like a stifled sob.

Slowly the stranger unfolds his turban, and suddenly out of it leaps a great white pebble. He lifts it before me betwixt his lean brown thumb and forefinger, and I know that in his other hand he holds the red knife.

"The diamond of the nizam, sahib," he murmurs.

As he speaks a sudden ray of sunlight falls upon the white pebble and a mighty glory seems to fill the room.

My eyelids drop before that glare. I see the brown face of the Indian bend lower. I see his fingers clutching at his knife. The room grows dark and yet darker. I seem to be slipping away, slipping away.

"John!"

Is that my name? Is somebody calling me? What is this that holds my hand and draws me back? No, no; let me go.

"John!"

Surely somebody is calling me.

I open my eyes slowly, so slowly. Across the level of my bed I see the face of George leaning forward, his features in the shadow, his eyes gleaming with frightened anxiety, in his hand a tiny medicine glass that catches a dazzling ray of sunlight. Somebody else is there, somebody who holds my hand tightly, somebody who calls again:

"John, dear!"

I raise my eyes a little higher. Another face is bending over me, a white, tear stained face.

"John!"

It is Mary.

And so I came back.—W. R. Rose in Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Kaiser's Story.

The emperor's "lieblingsblume" has become the national flower of Germany and the symbol of patriotism, but it will never be forgotten why he loved it, and the beautiful and touching story possesses ever new interest when told in his own words. Finding how many incorrect versions were spread about to account for his fondness for the simple field flower, the aged kaiser related the following pathetic incident:

"As my mother fled with myself and my deceased brother from Memel to Konigsberg during the troublous times at the beginning of our century, the misfortune happened to us that one of the wheels of our coach broke in the midst of the plain. No village was within reach, and we seated ourselves on the edge of the ditch while the damage was being repaired as well as circumstances would permit. My brother and I were rendered both tired and hungry by this delay, and particularly I, being a weak and delicate little fellow, gave my dear mother much trouble with my complaints. In order to distract our thoughts, my mother stood up, pointed out the many beautiful blue flowers in the fields and requested us to gather them and bring them to her. Then she made wreaths of them, and with joy we watched her skillful hands. Thereby the sad state of the country, her own trials and the anxiety concerning her sons' future may well have once more pressed heavily on my mother's heart, for slowly tear after tear welled from her beautiful eyes and fell on the wreath of cornflowers. This emotion of my devoted mother went deeply to my heart, and, forgetting my own childish sorrow, I attempted to console her with caresses, during which she placed the blue wreath, glittering with tears, on my head. I was then 10 years old, but this touching scene has never faded from my memory, and if now, in my old age, I behold the sweet blue flower, I imagine I see the tears of the most devoted of mothers shining upon it and therefore love it above all others."

Jena's Celebration.

The University of Jena this year celebrates its three hundred and fiftieth anniversary. It was founded in 1547 by Prince Johann Friedrich, who, having lost his own University of Wittenberg, together with his personal liberty, at the battle of Muhlberg, took the first steps toward the foundation of Jena. Its first professor was Melanchthon, Luther's friend, but he resigned the same year in consequence of religious dissensions. The first score of students came from Wittenberg, and their numbers grew so fast that their manifestations of joy when, a few years afterward, their prince was liberated were enough to precipitate a first class town and gown riot. As a consequence the townsfolk refused to harbor the students any longer, and it took the intercession of the prince to appease them.

The Offender.

"You ought to have been firmer in your discipline when the boy was little. Spare the rod, and you spoil the child."

"I know it, and if I had it to do over again I'd club his indulgent old grandfather black and blue."—Chicago Tribune.

A Fortunate Escape

From the Clipper, Burlington, Vt.

A reporter called upon Miss Lillian Warner at her home, 415 St. Paul Street, Burlington, Vt., and begged the favor of an interview.

The young lady is a musician and a pianist of considerable renown, and has her time fully occupied by engagements to play at concerts and other entertainments that are constantly taking place in the city, and the strain upon the strength and nervous energy of the pianist can be easily imagined.

"I never could have stood it once, but I have something now," said Miss Warner enthusiastically, "that braces me for my work. Some little time ago I was utterly unable to attend to my duties, owing to a disarrangement of the nervous system that effected my eyes with all the rest. They became so weak and troubled me so that I finally went away into the country to rest. The benefit obtained from the change of scene and freedom from care was, however, merely temporary, and upon my return to work I rapidly lost all that I had gained and more."

"But did you consult a doctor?"

"O yes, indeed; I put myself under the care of several doctors, and even tried many remedies recommended for cases like mine, but the medicines had no lasting effect, and it looked as though nervous prostration was to be my portion.

"I was about ready to throw physic to the dogs' when I first heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and it was with but small faith in any benefit to be derived from them that I at last made up my mind to try them.

"Hardly had I taken the first box before I experienced a great relief from the weakness and nervous troubles with which I was afflicted, and my eyes grew stronger every day."

"Are you taking the pills now?" was the next query.

"No; as I told you the first box helped me a great deal, and after I had taken six boxes I felt so well that I left off the medicine entirely and have not taken any now for some weeks. I am able to attend to all my duties and feel as well as can be, while my eyes continue to improve right along. I do not even mind the long walk from my home to the business part of the city.

Miss Warner further said that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People build up the system, giving a lasting effect and not merely a fictitious strength for the time being.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effect of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, that tired feeling resulting from nervous prostration, all diseases resulting from vitiated humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature.

These pills are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., and are sold only in boxes bearing the firm's trade-mark and wrapper at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and are never sold in bulk. They may be had of all druggists.

ELASTIC STARCH has been before the people of the United States for twenty-three years and is without doubt the greatest starch invention of the Nineteenth Century. Last year its sales reached the unprecedented number of twenty million packages. It is prepared upon scientific principles by men who have had years of practical experience in fancy laundrying. It makes ironing easy, restores old summer dresses to their natural whiteness, and imparts to linen a beautiful and lasting finish. It is the only starch manufactured that is perfectly harmless, containing neither arsenic, alum, or any other substance injurious to linen, and can be used even as a baby powder.
